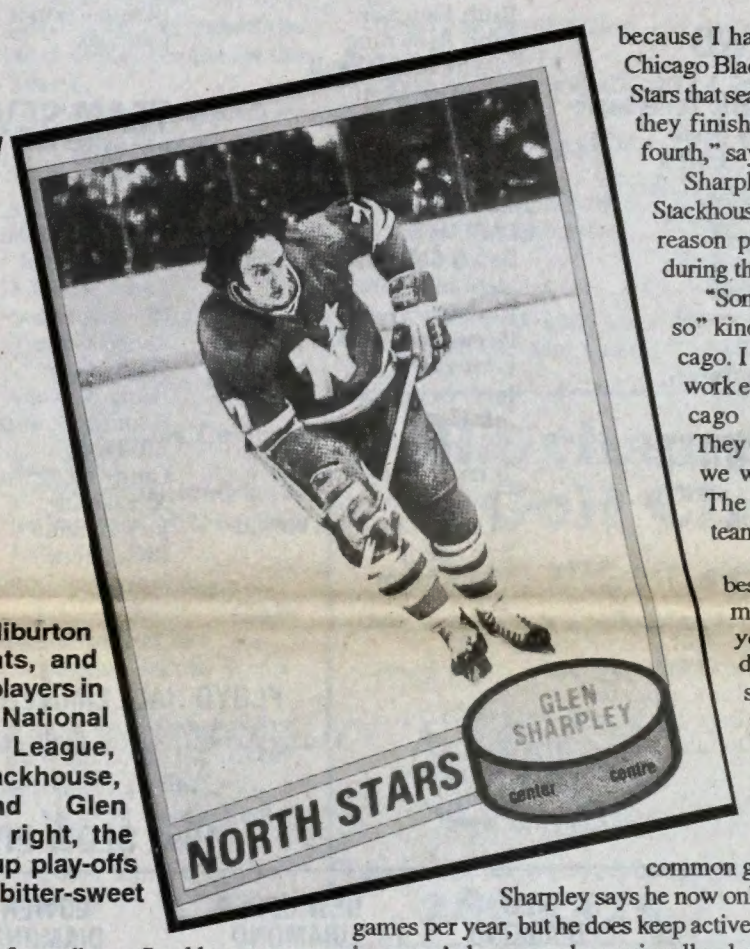
Looking back

Two former hockey pros remember their seasons on the ice

by Andy Holloway

"He shoots, he scores," has been etched into the Canadian consciousness ever since Foster Hewitt picked up a microphone in 1923 and now that the Stanley Cup play-offs are here that cry takes on even more importance.

But while most fans have to be content watching the games on television in their home or favourite tavern, listening to Bob Cole massacre the English language, a few area residents have experienced the thrill of competing for Lord Stanley's silver hardware. Perhaps a little surprising is their feeling that the play-offs, and professional hockey in general, hold little interest for them.



For Haliburton residents, and former players in the National Hockey League, Ron Stackhouse, left, and Glen Sharpley, right, the Stanley Cup play-offs bring back bitter-sweet memories.

For Ron Stackhouse, a defenceman with the Detroit Red Wings, California Golden Seals and Pittsburgh Penguins, the play-offs were often a source of frustration.

"I was always on a team that did not have a realistic chance of winning, so in that sense it was frustrating because I wondered how much better hockey would have been if we had done well," says Stackhouse.

Not surprisingly, Stackhouse's most vivid memory came in the 1975 play-offs when the New York Islanders overcame a 3-0 series lead by Stackhouse's Penguins. It was only the second time in history that a team had overcome such a deficit. Still, Stackhouse scored four points in that series.

"It's not a great memory, but it does stand out in my mind. We were comparable teams at the time, but later on the Islanders went on to win the Cup while we went the other way."

Stackhouse, who is now a teacher at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, says the players become more competitive and temperamental during the play-offs because there is more on the line than just money.

"There is a sense of pride that comes through in the play-offs because the money is insignificant when compared to what you make during the regular season. Also, the attention of the fans is more focused on what's going on and that adds something to the game," says Stackhouse, who admits that the fans in Pittsburgh did not exactly love him.

Perhaps that had more to do with the lack of hockey knowledge the Pittsburgh fans had in the days before Mario Lemieux put his stamp on the sport and not with the consistent effort that the smooth skating Stackhouse put out.

Despite being in professional hockey for over a decade, Stackhouse does not follow the sport much now.

"Sometimes it's hard to believe that I ever even played hockey. It was great while it lasted, but once I stopped playing it was kind of over," says Stackhouse.

"I can appreciate the skills that players have. I enjoy watching the Gretzkys and the Lemieuxs and that part of the game, but I don't really have a team that I cheer on."

Glen Sharpley has fonder memories for the NHL play-offs than Stackhouse, perhaps because there were some personally gratifying moments for him.

Sharpley, owner of a sporting goods store in Haliburton, was a centre for many years with the Minnesota North Stars and the Chicago Black Hawks.

Like Stackhouse, Sharpley never played for a Stanley Cup winner, or even on a team that got close. However, one of Sharpley's teams, the 1980 version of the North Stars, had the thrill of upsetting the powerful Montreal Canadians.

But Sharpley's best play-off experience was in the 1982 play-offs.

"Probably the most personally gratifying was in `81-`82 because I had been traded to the Chicago Black Hawks by the North Stars that season. And also because they finished first and we were fourth," says Sharpley.

Sharpley agrees with Stackhouse that money is not the reason players become testy during the play-offs.

"Sometimes it's a "told you so" kind of deal, like in Chicago. I told the team that the work ethic was higher in Chicago than in Minnesota. They didn't believe me, but we won and they saw it. The work ethic on that team was very high."

"Play-offs bring the best out of a guy that you may not get during the year. There are other distractions during the season, but during the play-offs everyone's headed in the same direction. You put it (distractions) all aside and there's one common goal, winning."

Sharpley says he now only watches one or two games per year, but he does keep active in the sport. He plays in a men's league and occasionally plays with the NHL Oldtimers. One of the reasons for his disenchantment with the NHL is the poor officiating.

"They let too much go and don't let the raw talent rise to the top. I think there's no consistency with the calls and with the suspensions. If you lose it, you have to pay for it and that's that."

In his rookie season, 1976-77, Sharpley finished third among rookie scorers with 57 points. However, he was known for being more of a penalty killer and face-off expert than a scorer despite racking up fairly consistent point totals.

Sharpley says players today are too self-centered and don't know how lucky they are to be playing hockey for a living.

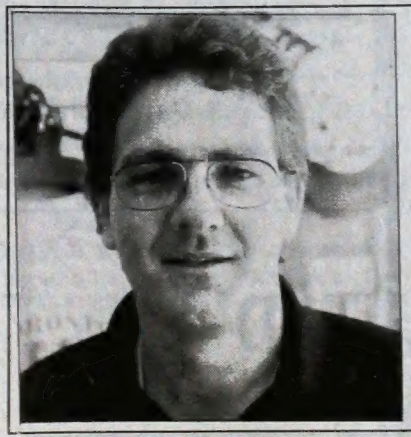
"I don't have time to watch it all the time now. I have to work for a living now. Welcome to the real world. Those players who went out on strike don't work for a living, but they don't know it."

While Sharpley does not have a favourite team, he says he is a bit partial to the Black Hawks.

"I thought New York (Rangers) had a good shot at winning it this year. Messier was going hot and it looked good, but he hasn't been playing well. You can make all kinds of excuses, but the bottom line is he's not doing it."

Even though Chicago looks like a good bet to win the Stanley Cup, Sharpley says he probably won't watch the conference final series with the Edmonton Oilers.

"I just might watch the first game. But the Hawks have had too long a lay-off to play really smart. It's the intangibles that make a team a winner, extra effort, hard work and the specialty teams. The specialty teams are the real key."



"I don't have time to watch it all the time now. I have to work for a living now. Welcome to the real world. Those players who went out on strike don't work for a living, but they don't know it," says Glen Sharpley, (left).

Redmen athletes capture two K-West records

by Andy Holloway

The smell of cocoa butter was in the air as Haliburton Highlands Secondary School's track team took on some of the best athletes in the Kawartha West finals at Trent University on Thursday.

Under sunny skies and fairly warm conditions, HHSS heated up the track, setting two of the nine record performances the meet.

The Redmen were easily one of the top teams overall in the meet and 42 of its 70 competitors are moving on to this Thursday's Central Ontario finals.

For the Redmen, Endres Weber set a new pole vault record clearing a height of 3.75 meters and beating the old record of 3.65 meters.

Weber easily beat his fellow competitors before vaulting alone in a successful attempt to pass the record. Weber was given a small round of applause for his efforts from teammates and rivals alike.

Chris Greenfield won the junior boys 400 meter and in doing so beat the old record by a tenth of a second. Greenfield's time was 51.5 seconds. He also won the junior boys long jump with a leap of 6.05 meters.

Coming achingly close to setting a record in the midget girls triple jump was Anna Tomlinson. Tomlinson initially did set a record with a jump of 9.55 meters, but lost the record a couple of minutes later to another competitor who jumped 9.7 meters. Tomlinson finished in second place.

"I was surprised by how competitive the event was," said track coach Walter Tose. "On the bus down I went through our list and thought 42 out of the 70 would move on to the next round. And we did get 42, but not all of the ones I predicted."

Tose was understandably very pleased with his team, particularly the relay teams for both boys and girls. Seven relay teams qualified for the Central Ontario finals.

"If you're looking for surprises, Kevin Mason maybe made the big difference on the B-team in the 1600 meter relay. He's normally a sprinter, but he ran his guts out," said Tose.

Tose also singled out Endres Weber for praise, not just for his record pole vault but also for filling in on the junior boys relay team.

On the girls' squad, Arlene Jackman finished second in the 100 and 200 meter sprints and Betty Verhovany ended up second in the senior girls long jump.

While many students took the day off from school to lounge around on the sidelines, play frisbee football or tan, there was some very serious competition for the Redmen.

This Thursday's Central Ontario finals will prove to be an even tougher test for the school.

Hustlers warming up for season start on Thursday

by Andy Holloway

With all the interest in the Toronto Blue Jays, it can sometimes be easy to forget that Minden has its own quality competitive baseball team, the Rockcliffe Hustlers.

Thursday night the Hustlers took to the ball park for their final pre-season practice and while only eight players showed up, the team is starting to look ready, at least in terms of hitting the long ball.

In particular, infielder Andrew "Newfer" Burk and catcher Mike MacNaull smashed quite a few line drives and appear to be ready to tackle the other three teams in the Tri-County Fastball League.

Player/manager Dave Dollo says he's optimistic this year will surpass last year's results in which the team's season ended in the first playoff round.

"We lost a few guys from last year, one moved to Toronto, one moved away and another works for Bell so he's not here a lot," said Dollo. "But we should have a competitive team again this year."

Last year, the Hustlers finished a respectable third in a five-team league. Now, with last year's front runners Bracebridge out of the league the Hustlers should rise to second place behind only Fenelon Falls.

The other two teams in the league are Bobcaygeon and a team from Lindsay.

Dollo says Fenelon Falls are the team to beat because they have great pitching. However, the Hustlers also have a great pitcher in Brian Shaw who is expected to join the team when the season starts.

"We should have Brian around for most of the year. Right now he's involved with minor ball, like a lot of guys, but he should be back," says Dollo.

Dollo says the team will start the season with only 11 players which makes it tough on the team if even one player gets injured or misses a game.

The team's roster, as it stands now is: Pitchers Brian Shaw and Jack Snell, infielders Doug Shaw, Andrew Burk, Tim Davies and Greg Newell, outfielders Ron Yake, Chris Alaire and Dave Dollo with Mike MacNaull and Jamie Dollo catching. However, almost every player can play two or three positions giving some flexibility to the line-up.

The Hustlers will play 18 games this season and their first home game is Thursday, May 21 at 8 p.m. against Lindsay.

Galapagos Islands threatened by own popularity

Reflections
by David Suzuki

Galapagos Islands, Ecuador - The name conjures other words - HMS Beagle, Charles Darwin, finches, evolution. To a biologist, a visit to these fabled islands is a pilgrimage to the source of the inspiration for the great unifying concept in the life sciences.

The remote equatorial archipelago, long protected from human habitation by its isolation, was an evolutionary laboratory just made for the observant scientist. Today, the islands are an Ecuadorian National Park that allows the privileged visitor to take a trip back through time.

Those were some of my thoughts as I prepared for my first Galapagos visit.

Upon arrival, these are my immediate, superficial but also most intense impressions. The animals are present in awesome profusion - the iguanas, frigate birds, boobies, sea lions, flamingos and tortoises.

Birds, reptiles and marine mammals share overlapping territory, often in astonishing numbers, and with remarkably little overt aggression. The most emotional part of the Galapagos experience for me has been the animals' complete lack of fear of humans.

It is profoundly humbling to be ignored as a non-threatening part of the surroundings. Because of what we have done to creatures elsewhere on Earth, Galapagos animals should flee from us in terror. I am deeply grateful that they don't.

My second reaction here is that the planet has grown so small that we can't escape the evidence and impact of our species. It's not just the bits of plastic and other human-created debris to be seen on every beach; eco-tourism itself is the main force that shapes the fate of the flora and fauna here.

Two airports allow jets to bring in a torrent of tourists who support the island human communities as well as the Ecuador government. As I watch the oil slick from bilge water being pumped from our small boat, I can't help thinking that even the most enlightened tourists have an impact. And while ecosystems are resilient, there are limits.

When the second airport was built a few years ago, the ceiling on tourists was raised from 25,000 to 40,000. The village of Puerto Ayora on Santa Cruz Island is exploding with unlimited immigration of Ecuadorians and the impact of the 5,500 people is apparent everywhere.

Continued growth of the island population will inexorably put greater pressure on the island ecosystems and inevitably, human and non-human needs will conflict.

The basic problem, of course, is that our ignorance is simply too vast to allow "Management" of complex communities or organisms. The best approach is to be very conservative and to tightly control the most destructive element in the islands, namely us. History suggests that's not likely.

Over tens of millennia of isolation, each of the Galapagos islands was an evolutionary opportunity. Over that time, new species arrived as part of the flotsam and jetsam that blow and wash on to any ocean islands, most to disappear and a few to survive.

But as in North and South America and Australia over the last five centuries, the Galapagos Islands in recent time have been radically altered both deliberately and accidentally by a succession of pirates, whalers and settlers.

The famous giant tortoises were a source of fresh meat for ocean voyagers and were carted off by the tens of thousands, extinguishing them from some islands. Introduced plants such as elephant grass, guyaba and wild cucumber have altered the species mix on some islands.

Insects such as wasps and fire ants have taken hold and have become major pests for people while the black-billed ani, a bird introduced to eat ticks and insect parasites on cattle, has become a major competitor with the endemic birds.

But the real disasters have been the mammals such as cats, burros, goats, pigs, rats and dogs. The government has instituted "control" programs to reduce or eradicate goats and cats by poison, traps and hunting, but the logistical problems are enormous and each has its associated negative side.

The Charles Darwin Station on Santa Cruz Island supports research and has a breeding program to increase numbers of threatened animals such as tortoises for release back in the wild. But again human perceptions and priorities based on limited knowledge are being imposed on the islands.

So while a visit to the Galapagos IS a sublime experience, it does not provide an escape from the reality of the global ecocrisis. Yet sharing space that is home for other species is spiritually uplifting, filling us with awe, reverence, indeed love. These emotional connections could be the beginning of a new attitude that could eventually change the way we live on Earth.

New office hours should improve access

Drainville Diary
A report from Queen's Park
With Dennis Drainville, MPP

The concerns and issues of Victoria-Haliburton are important to me. In order for my staff and I to better serve you, we have revised our office hours and are holding public forums.

To better respond to constituents' needs, we have changed our constituency office schedule to be accessible during peak times. My staff will be available to you on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Please note that we will be remaining open throughout the lunch hour to enable those on work schedules to reach us. On Wednesdays and during other times, the staff will be engaged in case work, meetings and following up on your enquiries. I hope this new schedule will provide everyone with ample opportunity to contact us, yet still allow staff the time they need to work on the ever expanding case load.

My constituency office is located at: Suite 203, 189 Kent Street West, Lindsay, Ontario K9V 5G6. You can reach us by phone during the above public hours at 324-6654 or 1-800-461-7672.

Recently I have started on a series of scheduled open public forums throughout Victoria-Haliburton. These are open meetings to give me a chance to meet directly with the public and answer questions and concerns about any aspect of the provincial government or life in Victoria-Haliburton. The first of these forums was held in Kinmount on April 11, 1992. I was able to meet with quite a few constituents and we had a good discussion about issues of great concern to the people of that area. The second forum will be on Saturday, June 13, at the Kirkfield Town Hall, between 2 and 4 p.m. Though the focus will again be on northern Victoria County, everyone is welcome to attend. I will be scheduling public forums in all areas of the riding throughout the year, and I look forward to meeting as many people as possible. Please contact my office to find out when we will be in your area.

It was a particular pleasure for me to bring the Minister of Agriculture to our area. The Honourable Elmer Buchanan was able to meet with many local farmers at the Ops Community Centre on April 9. Concerns around GATT talks, new legislation and commodity prices were expressed. I am sure the Minister has a good grasp of the concerns of those working in our agricultural industry.

I would also like to share with you my new appointment at Queen's Park. As of April 29, 1992 I took on the role as one of the Assistant Speakers of the House. Whenever the Speaker, David Warner, must be away from the chair, I may be asked to sit in his place. My job there is to preside over sittings of the Legislature and to be responsible for making all procedural rulings while maintaining order in the House. While in the Speaker's Chair, I am not permitted to take part in any debates and must shed all partisan political loyalties. The Speaker oversees the proceedings of the House from a neutral and unbiased position. I am honoured to take on this important role.

Time to tie one on

Millions of Canadians enjoy boating. Each year, over half the population goes out in small boats, at least once. And every year, some of these end up in the water.

Many of the people who died in boating accidents last year, drowned within a few feet of safety. Most of those victims owned life-jackets, but they weren't wearing them when they died.

By law, every boat must carry a Department of Transport approved life-jacket, or PFD, for each person on board, but if your life-jacket is under your picnic lunch or carefully stowed away, it is essentially useless. Most fatal boating accidents result from sudden capsizing or falls overboard. With no warning, there is not time to get into a life-jacket or PFD.

Be Boat Smart - your PFD is your best life insurance policy afloat, but it won't work if you don't wear it!

Volunteer drivers help

by Donna Pacey

Are you a senior 55 or over and/or a physically challenged person 18 or over? Are you trying to remain independent? Do you require local or long distance transportation for medical appointments, shopping, banking etc.?

If you answered 'yes' to the above questions, perhaps Haliburton County Home Support Services has the answer. The purpose of the Haliburton County Home Support Services transportation program is to provide transportation to seniors and/or physically challenged persons. Volunteers of HCHSS, utilizing their own vehicles, meet the challenge of providing this service and do it with a smile.

If you require local or long distance transportation, call Haliburton County Home Support Services at 457-2941. There is a fee schedule available for this service on request.

Volunteer drivers are currently being recruited. If you wish to offer your time and vehicle to enable persons to increase the scope of their mobility, please call 457-2941.

News from Staanworth Court

Trodds celebrate 60th anniversary

It was a celebration and happiness time last weekend when some 75 friends and relatives gathered to wish continued joy to Len and Mable Trodd on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary. Their family of three sons and two daughters, many in-laws, grandchildren and great-grandchildren enjoyed a family reunion on Friday night. The family gathered again with many friends on Saturday afternoon at the curling rink. The guests were welcomed by son Ken who also read the congratulatory letters that had been received from the Governor General of Canada, the Prime Minister and from Bill Scott, the local M.P.

There was much laughter and sharing of memories as those present enjoyed a delicious lunch.

Len and Mable thanked everyone for joining them in the celebration.

And the partying of Staanworth Court residents continued as Jean and Harry Cowen celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. Family and friends gathered at the Red Umbrella Inn. Musical entertainment was provided by brothers Gordon and Ian Flemming. A great sing song was enjoyed by all those present. Also enjoyed by all was a 3 tier cake made by Jean for this special occasion.

Now that the partying is over for a while, plans are being made for the "gardeners" to get their summer projects under way. Plots have been allotted and the ground is being readied — bring on the tomatoes! Other activities enjoyed by the residents include the weekly bingo, dart games and the euchre evenings. There's always something to keep us busy.

Residents enjoy happy hour

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Sorry we didn't get May 1 news in the column last week, but we ran out of space. However, we are happy to include it in this week.

Friday May 1 was Happy Hour and there was a nice crowd to hear Ted and Billy Pickard play the accordion and small drums as well as sing. Everyone really enjoyed the afternoon and we thank them greatly. We were well looked after by volunteers Jankie Thomas, Dorothy Milne, Lorraine Swinson and Ellen Holden. Don Holden did a good job of manning the bar.

Saturday and Sunday we didn't have reading but we hope to this weekend. There was Chapel service Sunday night with Rev. John Burgess and Alice Jones playing the piano. Our sincere thanks.

Monday morning the children of Archie Stouffer School, accompanied by their teachers, visited Hyland Crest. The students were from Grade 4 and had prepared a program of jingles from around the 40's, such as Noxema, Mr. Clean, A Little Dab'll do ya and the banana song. The announcers were Eric Thompson, Kathy Adams, Laurie Marks-O'Sullivan and Linda Brandon. For so many children they were well behaved. The teachers must be proud of them. We thank the students, teachers and all who took part and appreciate them thinking of us.

At 1:30 p.m. Evelyn Coleman came for bible study. This is the last bible study until Fall. Evelyn says she thinks we will continue the time at 1:00 as usual. Thank you Evelyn for this last season. We appreciate it.

Residents' Council was held at 2:00. We had a very good meeting with Llyn Shirley, Dietary Director giving a short talk on food; which has the most food value and that it divided into four and what each division does for us and why we should eat some of each for a balanced diet. Thank you Llyn for a very instructive talk.

There have been a few residents sick lately: Maron Rose, Pearl Lyle, Lucy Burgess and Mary Oliver. We hope they are soon feeling well again.

May 6, 1992 Doris Robertson drove a bus load of residents to General Lee's for lunch and our favourite spot for ice cream. They took a little detour to Pike's Peak to admire the view. Thanks to new and regular volunteers Eileen Hughes, Mabel Deacon, Beth and Fred Parker and Pearl Cowan.

Well, Thursday tea party time again. The tea was provided by the Harcourt Christian School. They served a beautiful lunch and the children entertained with a delightful program. Christopher Pathaar recited "Psalm of Life"; Daniel Pathaar on piano played Bach and German Dance by Beethoven; Ally Pathaar read 1st Peter 3:8-17; Harcourt Christian School did a skit "Many are Called but Few are Chosen". The children were Paul Heppern, Bill Brand, John Kerr, Shawn VanHorn, Daniel, Chris Leah and Rebekah Pathaar. Alice Todd thanked them beautifully in the absence of Winnifred Barnum.

Friday Happy Hour was here again. The volunteer musicians Connie and Mike Salvatori and Frank Faulkner playing violin, guitar and mouth organs that was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

The volunteers for this Friday were Don Holden barman, Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemin, Jankie Thomas, Dorothy Milne and Bonnie Fullan. Irene McKelvey was accompanied by her two sons which made a happy day for her.

The County of Haliburton will conduct an aerial spray program to combat Gypsy Moth beginning on or about May 27 and ending on or about June 12 1992. The Program will be conducted in the Townships of Glamorgan, Lutterworth, Minden, Sherborne, Snowdon, Stanhope at small selected spray blocks only.

Further details about the program may be obtained at the County of Haliburton office at corner of Newcastle & St. Germaine Streets, or at Box 399 Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0 (705) 286-1333.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank all the wonderful people of Minden, Lutterworth and surrounding areas for all the prayers, cards, phone calls and any way they have helped to get me back on my feet after and during my stay in hospital. It's great to know there are people out there who really care. Thanks again.
Lee Oster.

The family of the late Jim Shaw would like to pay tribute to a wonderful, loving, caring community. Thanks go out to everyone who sent food, cancer donations and floral arrangements. Special thanks to Dr. Asbell who climbed the stairs many a time to see his patient, the VON, the Minden Hospital staff and nurses, the Gord Monk Funeral Home, the Haven of Rest Chapel ladies, Randy Warburton, Carl Upton and May Stevenson who has help throughout. Thank you all.
